Xiaochuan Pan, DTCM, graduated from Heilongjiang College of TCM in 1978 and entered Dalian Medical College in 1983 for a master's degree in modern medicine. Then Dr. Pan worked in Dalian Hospital of Integrative Medicines and set up an institute of integrative medicines funded by the Ministry of TCM of China . In 1986, Dr. Pan was given the senior professional title with exception due to achievements in his research to combine Chinese and Western medicine. Dr. Pan has been practicing and teaching TCM for 6 years in B.C. and has special interests in herbology and classical readings. Dr. Pan is also a visiting professor to Anhui University of TCM. Dr. Pan was a benefactor of the East West Medical Society (which is a non-profit organization with charity status) and he was instrumental in the growth and development of Canadian College of Acupuncture and Oriental Medicine).
